- TOP 1.1 DNT semester ticket -> [Gabi], [Antonia]

Here you can see the preliminary minutes of the first meeting with the DNT. They are now meeting intern and we will meet again next week. Only then there will be price negotiations...

Evaluation:

Student representatives (SV):

There was a survey at Bauhaus University. Many knew about the DNT ticket, but only about half of the students used the offer. Among other things, a lack of affinity for theatre was mentioned, no time, but also that the offer was not considered very attractive. For example, because you cannot attend premieres or because of space limitations. Many students did not know the exact regulations.

At the HfM there was no survey, but through personal conversations the impression came up that the offer is used a lot and everybody seems to be very satisfied.

DNT:

Due to a lack of knowledge, it takes longer to pass on information when buying a DNT ticket at the box office, but in general people are very satisfied with the cooperation.

Flyers could be one way of disseminating information. Tim Model suggests to put flyers in the freshmen-bags of the respective universities to reach the first-year students.

However, the student representatives are also asked to publish the information they have collected on the DNT website. A marking with a symbol of events in the calendar, which cannot be visited with the ticket, would additionally facilitate the handling.

Representative of the DNT addresses a possible contact between the PR department of the DNT and the student representations.

In general, one would like to get in contact with the student representations more quickly for future cooperation, but this is difficult due to the constantly changing representations.

To the contract:

The semester fee has already been collected. There were offers from the DNT at the end of the last semester and there will probably not be any this semester.

It is in the interest of all parties not to transfer the money back, but to transfer the contribution to the coming semesters according to the solidarity principle.

The Student representatives would like to know why the tickets for out-of-town students are more expensive with 9,50€ than for those from Weimar. The DNT points out that Weimar students, especially those from the HfM, are possible future cooperation partners and that this gives them a bonus.

The price of €6.50 for Weimar students at special events is not regulated in the contract and the SV would like to include it in the contract. The DNT notes that these prices can fluctuate. However, this will be checked. The information about the special price can also be published on the website together with the rest of the information about the DNT ticket.

Future cooperation:

For planning security, it is in everyone's interest to extend the contract for two seasons (i.e. 2 years) or more. An annual evaluation at the end of April or the beginning of May seems to make sense here.

The DNT will examine whether a carryover can be spread over several years in the sense of a stability of the 4 Euro.

In addition, there is interest on both sides in joint offers such as panel discussions with students, as has been the case in the past.

Participation of student representatives very welcome
